

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS: For many people across the world, the month of January is often considered a time for reflection and consideration of one's goals for the upcoming year. Fittingly, January has also become known as International Quality of Life Month; and

WHEREAS: Quality of life encompasses every aspect of a person's life, and although its determinants may vary according to personal preferences, they often include factors such as job satisfaction, family life, health, spirituality and safety; and

WHEREAS: The City of Jacksonville recognizes the importance that quality of life improvements can have on citizens' daily experiences and sense of connection to their communities; and

WHEREAS: This commitment extends to personal and community wellness, public safety, parks and recreational access, infrastructure improvements, youth services and more. Every City office and initiative serves to support this mission; and

WHEREAS: In observance of International Quality of Life Month, the City of Jacksonville reaffirms its commitment to addressing citywide needs that affect every citizen in every ZIP code, and encourages citizens to seek wellness by pursuing activities, services and other available resources that will fulfill their needs.

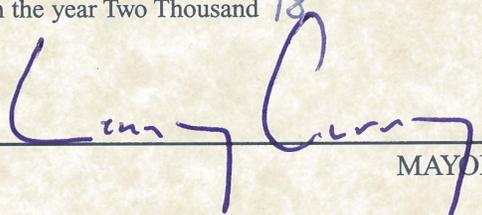

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LENNY CURRY, by virtue of the authority vested in me as mayor of Jacksonville, Florida, do hereby proclaim January 2019 as in Jacksonville and call upon all citizens to reflect upon changes they can make in the new year to improve their own well-being.

IN WITNESS THEREOF, this 18th day of December in the year Two Thousand 18

MAYOR

CITY OF JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA
