

JACKSONVILLE
HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

Study Circles Initiative

HARMONY • UNITY • EQUALITY

A study circles is a dialogue that focuses on racial and ethnic relations sponsored by the Jacksonville Human Rights Commission.

In a study circle 8 – 14 individuals of different racial and ethnic backgrounds meet two hours a week for five weeks to engage in open and honest discussion on racism and race/ethnic relations. Through an honest and respectful exchange, participants are able to learn from diverse experiences, achieve a greater understanding and appreciation of differing cultures, and establish a basis for working together on other community issues.

Join a study circle today (at no cost) and help make Jacksonville the best place in the nation to live, work and raise a family.

HOW TO JOIN A STUDY CIRCLE

To join a study circle, select one from the list below and complete the registration form on the back. If none of the existing study circles meet your schedule, please indicate your preferred time and location on the registration form.
