Dear Residents,

One of my goals this summer is to highlight Jacksonville's wonderful parks as a destination for you and your family, encouraging residents and visitors alike to visit time and time again. Our city is home to nearly 400 parks and recreational spaces. Not only is it considered the largest urban park system in the nation, but it is also diverse in what it offers residents. From oceanfront parks to trails, playgrounds to ballfields, and community centers to kayak launches, our parks are truly an asset to Jacksonville.

Over the next few months, we have some great things in store. Waterproof Jacksonville, a drowning prevention campaign, is expanding to teach more kids how to swim. Our youth urban parks initiative, Rec N' Roll Jax, will grow from 11 to 18 parks offering more of our youth places to go and participate in positive activities that will keep them both active and safe.

Summer Night Lights (SNL) has returned! During the spring, our staff reached out to teens across Jacksonville to determine what types of activities our youth most want to see at SNL. Now we are working hard to put those ideas into place; new activities like how to start your own business and life skills through hip hop. There will also be pool activities, team sports and other special events.

Finally, we have opened five previously closed communities centers for area residents to enjoy, and this is only the beginning. I remain committed to continued improvements to our parks with more programs, quality facilities and new ways to explore all that Jacksonville has to offer. I hope you will take time this summer to enjoy Jacksonville's parks.

Sincerely,

Alvin Brown
Mayor
