Chardae Hancock

Tatum Thompson the YLAC President started the meeting at 12:05 p.m. She introduced Kayla Hughes the representative from Hemming Park and she talked about Hemming Park and how it can help with the YLAC event Jaxtivities. She discussed the possibilities of having food trucks, but that it would be more expensive to have food trucks at the event than having a sponsor. The members were advised that they would not need officers unless, they have over 1000 people. The park will only provide 10 tables and tents. The people will be flowing from the Monroe and Laura Street corner and she suggested the most unpopular tents should be placed in that location.

Tatum then approved the minutes from the last meeting at 12:26. The members went over the flier and the dress code to be business casual. The members voted on their motto, "Come See What Jacksonville Has to Offer." The members voted and approved the workshops courses, financial literacy, drug and alcohol awareness, and resume building and career planning.

The members discussed outside features such as Zumba, bean bag toss, running, fishing, self-defense classes, and live music, none of which was voted on. The members were tasked to contact vendors by Ms. Hancock.

At 2:45 p.m. the members toured the Atrium, the Mezzanine floor, and Hemming Park to get an idea of the layout for Jaxtivities. Then they split into their groups and discussed the video plans for the Public Service Announcement for Jaxtivities and a Competition Video for the Florida Municipal Achievement Awards.

The meeting was adjourned at 3:30 p.m.
